

Welcome

Welcome to the WA Health Promoting Schools Association website.

The WA Health Promoting Schools Association (WAHPSA) advocates and supports a whole school and community approach to health and wellbeing. The Association achieves this through education, coordination and collaboration with school communities and health agencies.

Formerly known as the School Health Coalition, WAHPSA was established in 1989 and is currently comprised of over 40 health and school organisations. Membership consists of fully paid members and invited guests and is inclusive of the health and education sectors and other related sectors with the common goal of improving the health of young people through school based health promotion activities.
